ENDING HOMELESSNESS

ABOUT OPCS

Old Pueblo Community Services is a Tucson-based nonprofit organization committed to serving our community since 1996. We provide housing, counseling, and support services to individuals and families experiencing homelessness in Pima County. We follow a Housing First model, an evidence-based approach, which centers on quickly transitioning people from homelessness into permanent housing. Once stably housed, individuals can access wrap-around services designed to support housing stability, employment, and recovery.

MISSION

Our mission is to end homelessness. We do this by providing housing first and support services, and by fostering community empathy for people who experience homelessness.

VISION

We envision a world where homelessness is rare and brief. A world where Housing First is the standard, and safe, accessible, dignified housing is available to all.

TO OUR COMMUNITY PARTNERS

Homelessness continues to be a pressing challenge in our community. A historic rise in rental costs and evictions has led to a staggering 164% increase in homelessness over the last three years. An estimated 10,000 households experienced homelessness in Pima County last year, with over 4,000 people forced to live in emergency shelters, in their cars, or on the streets.

Fortunately, there is a path forward. With more accessible shelters, supportive services, and affordable permanent housing, we can address this crisis. Unfortunately, many of Tucson's shelters maintain high entry barriers—such as restrictions based on pet ownership, mental illness, a physical health condition, or gender identity. Because of those barriers, more than 300 people were denied entry last year and died on the streets despite available beds at high-barrier shelters.

Shelter alone, however, is not enough to solve homelessness. Tucson needs more supportive services to help individuals transition into permanent housing and remain housed. With your support, we opened the city's first Center for Housing First, expanding our capacity by 40% to provide housing navigation, employment assistance, outpatient behavioral health care, and community referral services. Guided by our 2022 Strategic Plan, we plan to increase our ownership of affordable housing to better serve households often excluded due to incarceration or eviction histories—issues frequently tied to a history of mental health and addiction.

I am deeply grateful for your support in 2024. Because of your generosity, we served over 2,659 individuals, including 57 families with children. Your support has been transformative, helping 348 people escape the dangers and dehumanization of homelessness and move into homes of their own.

Thank you for being part of the solution to homelessness!

THE HOMELESS WORK PROGRAM

Cleaning Our City and Changing Lives

The Homeless Work Program (HWP) is an initiative that offers day labor and temporary employment opportunities to people experiencing homelessness, while also addressing municipal clean-up needs. Led by OPCS, this program was launched eight years ago and has achieved impressive results. To date, it has helped 4,000 participants earn money and get back on their feet, with nearly 20% of those who exited the program now housed.

The HWP not only improves lives, but also beautifies our city's public spaces and positively changes how people view the unhoused in our community. This program is made possible with the support of the City of Tucson, Pima County, Caridad Community Kitchen, Tucson Change Movement, and many other community partners.

A Hub to End Homelessness

The Center for Housing First is now open! Located at 2323 S. Park Avenue, our 21,000 sq. ft. campus features two buildings: a human services hub and a training and resource center. The remodeling of the south building, which houses the services hub and operations, was completed first. Having this larger space will help us increase our service capacity by 40% and offer additional wrap-around services designed to support long-term housing stability. On-site services include case management, housing navigation, employment services, an outpatient behavioral health clinic, and referral services, among other critical supports.

Renovation of the north building will be completed by Fall 2025. This space will feature the Housing First Training Center, a kitchen and pantry to support food distribution to our shelters, and a dedicated donation and volunteer center. Our training center will offer evidence-based courses such as Housing First, Peer Support Certification, Trauma-Informed Care, and Motivational Interviewing. OPCS will also provide shared workspace to small, grassroots nonprofits that serve the unhoused population, strengthening our collective impact across the community.

“This center will serve as an anchor for growing the Housing First movement in our community: a movement with a solid, evidence-based plan to end homelessness.”

THE OPCS HOME FUND

The Home Fund was established in 2015 to pay for the cost of shelter bed nights for clients not covered by government-funded programs. The program has since expanded to help individuals and families exit from our shelters into permanent housing. It pays for Section 8 HUD housing move-in fees including deposit, application fees, and utilities -costs not covered by government funding. The Home Fund also prevents the eviction of clients who fall behind on their HUD rent payment portion due to illness or job loss. In addition, it pays for beds, kitchenware, and basic furnishings, so clients do not move into an empty home.

Beyond housing, the fund helps remove barriers to employment by covering the cost of IDs, work clothing, tools, and other job-related items. These supports are crucial in helping individuals regain stability and independence.

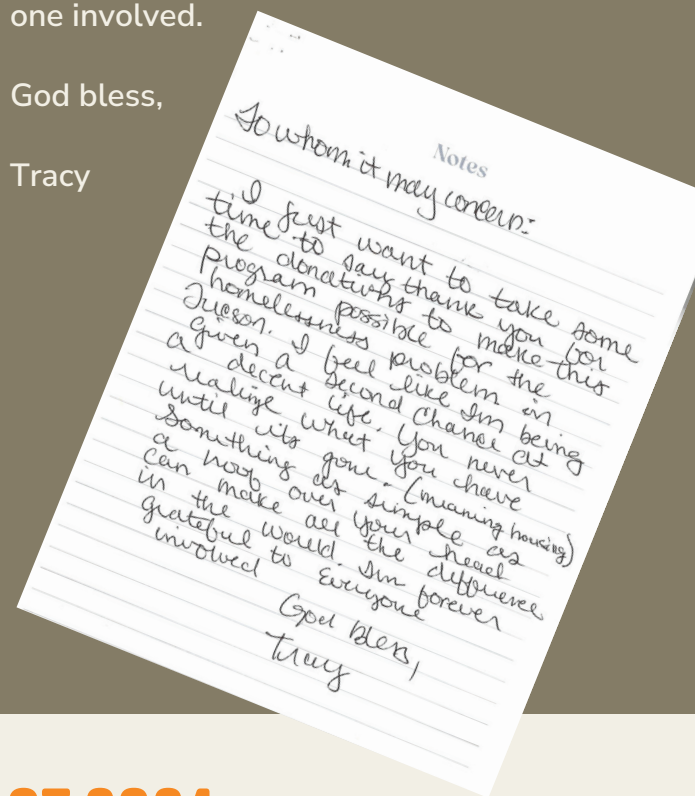

The Home Fund is powered by community grants and community donations. Contributions to the homefund are eligible for the Arizona Charitable Tax Credit.

To whom it may concern:

I just want to take some time to say thank you for the donations to make this program possible for the homelessness problem in Tucson. I feel like I'm being given a second chance at a decent life. You never realize what you have until it's gone (meaning housing). Something as simple as a roof over your head can make all the difference in the world. I'm forever grateful to everyone involved.

God bless,

Tracy

Our Values

Empathy

We have a deep compassion for people experiencing homelessness in our community. We do not judge or blame people for their current condition. Under similar conditions, any one of us could find ourselves without a home and in need of help.

Choice

We honor each person's right to choose their own path to wellness. Because of this, we offer both housing and recovery support based on client choice.

Optimism

We believe in the potential for all people to achieve their goals. We find our work meaningful and enjoyable because we know we make a difference. We believe that we can solve the problem of chronic homelessness facing our community.

Integrity

We act in an honest and transparent manner. We hold each other accountable to high performance standards that lead to the best outcomes for our clients. We encourage each employee and team to reach their highest potential.

Quality

We believe that our clients deserve the best housing, therapy and support services we can offer. We provide housing that is safe, clean, inviting and supportive. Our counseling services are innovative and proven to increase wellness and housing stability.

Diversity Statement

OPCS is intentionally working toward a culture of inclusion, diversity, equity, and access. We acknowledge that forms of systemic discrimination (such as sexism, racism, homophobia, transphobia, classism/ poverty, able-ism, and anti-immigrant sentiment), has marginalized persons in our community, and negatively impacted their access to housing, employment, and healthcare. Because of this, we aspire to greater inclusion and access throughout our organization, including those in need of housing and services, as well as our staff, Board of Directors, and volunteers. We oppose discrimination and racism by working to remove stereotypes and negative attitudes that affect all our interactions and stand in the way of our vision of ending homelessness in Pima County.
